Considered by Colleagues for German Taken to Task for Banking and Currency Chairmanship.

WILSON IS INTERESTED LETTER IS MADE PUBLIC

President Desires Legislation Enacted Formula for the Ofiginal Cultures Which Permanently Will Correct Existing Evils.

By JOSEPH P. ANNIN.

Repeated demonstration of the combined Underwood administration strength in the Democratic caucus of the House promises an early conclusion of the tariff work of the extra session and brings the monetary reform question nearer the legislative stage.

President Wilson has let it be known that if the tariff bill "can be pushed through in a satisfactory form he will call upon Congress for immediate con-sideration of reform in the banking and currency system; that with the lone ex-ception of the tariff, he considers this of paramount importance to the nation

Indications now are that the tariff bill, after a few 'jokers' have been elimi-nated, will be enacted virtually in its present form, and that without any great delay. If the next few weeks continue to point to such a consummation, preparations for monetary legislation probably will get under way in both Houses of Congress.

The Senate already has organized its new Banking and Currency Committee, headed by Senator Owen of Oklahoma, himself a banker. Senator Owen does not expect that either he or his com-mittee will remain idle while the tariff is being disposed of, and the Senate will be obliged to "mark time" in one way or another for upward of thirty days while the House is putting through the while the Flouse is putting through the tariff bill, unless opposition to the bill develops such strength in the Senate that is deemed necessary to separate one or more schedules from the general pro-gramme.

Concern Over Chairmanship.

In the House the new Banking and Currency Committee has not been organ-ized, and the organization of that committee is a question which is causing the administrative leaders no little con-cern. The selection of a chairman is considered of vital importance. Repconsidered of vital importance. Representative Carter Gless of Virginia is in line of succession, the defeat of Arsene Pujo necessitating the selection of a new head for that committee. Pujo headed the "Money Trust" investigating subcommittee. Glass was not upon that subcommittee. It is of vital importance, account money resources that declare monetary reform experts, that the chairman of the next committee have a close knowledge of the facts brought a close knowledge of the facts brought out by the Pujo investigating committee as well as a wide knowledge of montary and commercial conditions here and

That there are two schools of thought among the would-be monetary reformers in Congress is indicated by the nature of bills which already have been introduced, calling for changes in the bank-ing and currency system. One type ing and currency system. One type seeks by patchwork correction of the present system to meet changed condi-tions and stave off, for the time being, at

President May Determine. The selection of a chairman for the House Banking and Currency Committee devolves upon the Ways and Means When the question comes up for settlement there is little doubt that President Wilson will seek to have his choice placed at the head of the committee. Mr. Wilson has not, as far as is known, indicated a preference. He has not let it be known that he favors Mr. Glass, nor that he opposes the Virginian. Being an authority on the monetary question, Mr. Wilson will look into the record and sound the views of all candidates before indicates a preference. Mr. Wilson certainly clearly defined monetary

Representative Stephens was designated by Chairman Pujo as vice chairman of the money trust investigating commit-tee. He was in constant attendance on the prolonged hearings. In addition, he a wide reading acquaintance mancial conditions and customs both here and abroad. He believes the prac-tice of banking, to be correct and to erve the best interests of all, must governed by firmly established laws rules, as in any other profession. He believes this regulation should establish firmly a force which would regu-ate credit and credit rates beyond the thus insuring the legitimate business interests banking and credit accommodament of ruinous rates or premium

Stephens' bills indicate a leanin toward the banking system of England and most of the other European counand most of the other European countries except Germany, where the control of credit is held by law in the hands of commercial interests as distinguished from banking interests, making it impossible for speculative bankers to exact tribute from business, or to curb and

His Slowness in Treating Patients.

Never Supplied to Public Health Service.

The United States government last night made public its first comment on the work of Dr. Frederich Franz Friedmann in administering his treatment for tuberculosis.

This is a severe criticism of the Ger man doctor's slowness in treating pa tients under the observation of a special board of the United States Public Health Service, and is made in a letter written to the doctor by Passed Assistant Sur-geon John F. Anderson, director of the hygienic laboratory and chairman of the board of investigation.

Having the approval of Surgeon General Blue and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, it is practically an ultimatum, reguiring the tuberculosis specialist to promptly comply with the promises made to the medical authorities that he would expedite his treatment in order that the government may reach a verdice for the benefit of the American people as soon as possible. The letter to Dr. Friedas follows:

More Speed Urged.

Dr. Frederich Franz Friedmann, Hotel Narragansett, Providence, R. L., We regret to have to invite your attention to the halting progress in your demonstration of the alleged curative value of your remedy for tuberculo-sis. In or-der to avoid undue prolongation of your demonstration and to avoid un-necessary delay in advising the public of a judgment that we may be able to form of the value of your treatment, we are forced to limit our clinical studies to the number already treated under your observation in the hos pitals in New York city.

In their interests and for the reasons for limiting our clinical observations to those already treated, we feel that these patients should now be seen by you with the view of giving such additional injections of your remedy as may, in your judgment, be necessary to effect a cure. London, April 15.-While it is known that J. Wilberforce Martin, the Tennessee millionaire, who has been missing since April 3, is still alive, his whereabouts are still a matter of mystery

The statement last night that Martin was still alive was borne out today by and by Detective William J. Burns. Martin was located today on the fourth fleor of a rooming house in the Kensington district, on the south side of the river. He was lying ill there, but when J. Lockhe was 19ing ill there, but when J. Anderson got this information from a Mrs. Bailey, a West End clairvoyant. The day's work started with Anderson, who is a friend of Martin's, dining with Mrs. Balley at the Savoy Hotel. He had previously notified Scotland Yard he would be there and Chief Inspector Warn with Detectives Hobbs and six men were in the hotel lobby for the purpose of getting a glimpse of the mys-terious clairvoyant.
